Queen-Empress v. Nageshappa Pai.

The accused pleaded that the complaint having been made more than 6 months after the date of the alleged offence was not to be entertained under section 11 of the General Salt Act XII of 1882.

The Magistrate overruled this plea and held that the complaint was in time, observing—

“ I hold that the case is not barred by the provisions of section 11, if it is proved that there has been a fraud by which the prosecution were kept in ignorance of the occurrence of the alleged offence.”

30. The above circular is the result of appeal in the case of Imperator vs. Rama bin Pun Gawda and 6 others who were charged with being in possession of more than one maund of salt contrary to the provisions of Section 38 (1) of Salt Act II of 1890 and were acquitted.

be weighed in the manner which he requires, and the cost of so doing shall be recoverable by the said officer from the said person.

44. Every person arrested under section 39 shall be forwarded without delay to the nearest salt revenue-officer empowered to send persons so arrested to a Magistrate, or, if there be no such salt-revenue-officer within a reasonable distance, to the officer in charge of the nearest police station.

NOTE.—For particulars vide chapter IX of Part II.

In their Resolution No. 6401 of 11th September 1891, Government have approved of the Legal Remembrancer's interpretation of sections 44 and 45 of the Bombay Salt Act II of 1890 which is as follows:—

Under section 45 of the Salt Act, when an officer in charge of a Police station, "receives direct any complaint or information of the commission of an offence" under that Act, he is required "to enquire into and deal with the case under the provisions, of the Code of Criminal Procedure relating to cognizable cases", i.e., the complaint or information, if given orally, must be reduced to writing under section 154 and if he has reason to suspect the commission of an offence under the Salt Act, he must report it to a Magistrate and proceed to investigate it under sections 156 and 157. In such cases therefore I think that any person arrested in the course of the Police investigation must be held to have been arrested by virtue of the general powers given to Police officers by section 54 (firstly) of the Criminal Procedure Code and in relation to cognizable cases and not under the special powers given to Police officers above the grade of Head Constable by section 39 of the Salt Act, read with the Commissioner's Notification No. 1048, dated 7th March 1891. The case of a person so arrested does not therefore fall under section 44, which only relates to the disposal of persons "arrested under section 39" and consequently the officer in charge of a Police station investigating the offence is not required to forward him to the nearest Salt Revenue Officer empowered to send persons so arrested to a Magistrate", but may under section 170 of the Criminal Procedure Code forward the accused direct to a Magistrate as in an ordinary cognizable case.

3. But in cases when an officer in charge of a Police station does not receive direct any complaint or information of the commission of an offence punishable under the Salt

Act, then, without a warrant from a Magistrate or except in the special case provided for by section 57 of the Criminal Procedure Code, he can only arrest a person suspected of having committed such an offence, if he is above the grade of Head constable and acts under the power conferred on him by section 80 of the Salt Act, and Commissioner's Notification No 1048, dated 7th March 1891. The person so arrested then becomes a person "arrested under section 39" and must be dealt with under section 44, i.e., the police officer making the arrest can in such a case only deal with it himself, if there be no salt-revenue-officer within a reasonable distance and he is the officer in charge of the nearest police station.

The question what is "a reasonable distance" is one of fact depending on the circumstances of each particular case, but I do not think there is any legal objection to Government laying down the number of miles which as a General rule be considered in Gujarat "a reasonable distance" for the purposes of section 44 of the Salt Act (Legal Remembrancer's No. 900 of 5th August 1901, Government Resolution, No. 6401 of 11th September 1901 in which Government considered it unnecessary to prescribe what is a reasonable distance).

45. The officer in charge of a police-station to whom any person is forwarded under the last preceding section, or who receives, direct, any complaint or information of the commission of an offence punishable under this Act, shall inquire into and deal with the case under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882,* relating to cognizable cases.

Procedure to be followed by officer in charge of a police-station in cases of offences punishable under this Act. Inquiry

46. (1) When any person is forwarded under section 44

(2) For this purpose the said salt-revenue-officer may exercise the like powers and shall be subject to the same provisions as the officer in charge of a police-station may exercise, and is subject to, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882,* when investigating a cognizable case :

against persons forwarded to them under section 44.

(3) Provided that—

(a) if the said salt-revenue-officer shall be of opinion that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion against the accused person, he shall forward him to a Magistrate having power to take cognizance of the offence;

(b) if it appears to the said salt-revenue-officer that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground as aforesaid, he shall release the accused on his executing a bond, with or without sureties as such salt-revenue-officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate having power as aforesaid, and make a full report of all the particulars of the case to his official superior and be guided by the order which he shall receive upon such report.

RULINGS.

Imperatrix vs. Balu Miya valad Shekhhbai Thakur.

Section 47
of the Bom.
Act II of 1890.

Held, reversing the conviction and sentence that a principal cannot be held liable for an illegal act done by an Agent on his own account, and that the language of section 3, clause

(c), of the Bombay Salt Act II of 1890 ought not to be interpreted so as to impose penalties under section 47 of the said Act on an innocent principal where there has been no knowledge or connivance in the act of his Agent. (Criminal Ruling 40 of 3rd September 1891—Jardine and Parsons JJ.)

Imperatrix vs. Dabhai Kabhai.

Accused had in his house salt water, and as he admitted that it was his intention to manufacture salt therefrom, he was convicted of an offence under section 47 (a) of the Bombay Salt Act, 1890, and sentenced to pay a fine of Rs. 5 or in default to suffer rigorous imprisonment for seven days.

Held, reversing the conviction and sentence and ordering the fine to be refunded, that the mere possession of salt water, with the intention of manufacturing salt therefrom, is not made an offence under the Bombay Salt Act, 1890.

(Criminal Ruling No. 19 of 22nd June 1899—Parsons and Ranade JJ.)

Imperator vs. Lalla Vahala.

The accused was charged with having in his possession contraband salt, which was found in a box which contained besides the salt some ornaments and other articles. A second class Magistrate convicted the accused under section 47 of Bombay Act II of 1890 and directed that all the articles found in the box together with the salt should be confiscated and transmitted to the Collector of Salt Revenue for disposal under section 52 of the Act. In appeal the District Magistrate upheld the conviction but directed that the ornaments found with the salt should be restored to the accused. Held that in directing the ornaments to be returned to the accused the District Magistrate had exercised jurisdiction which was not conferred on him by law, section 52 of the Act prescribed that all confiscations under that Act should be adjudicated by the Collector or by any other officer empowered in that behalf by the Governor in Council. The order of the District Magistrate directing the ornaments to be returned was therefore clearly ultra vires and void.

(Criminal Ruling No. 11 of 25th June 1902, Crouce and Batty, JJ.).

Imperator vs. Maganlal Dholabhai.

In order to justify a conviction under section 47, clause Under sec-
(a), of the Bombay Salt Act III of 1890 it is not necessary tion 47, to prove dishonest intention on the part of the accused. The provisions of that section do not in express terms or by necessary implication make intention or knowledge an essential ingredient of the offence. What is prohibited by the Salt Act is the removal of salt in contravention of any license or permit and that shows that such removal is prohibited in itself and so knowledge on the part of the licensee is unnecessary.

(b) with intent to cause injury or annoyance to any person vexatiously and unnecessarily makes use of any power conferred upon him under this Act ; shall for every such offence be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Imperatrix vs. Dharamdas Bhagvandas.

Section 48
of the Bombay
Salt
Act II
of 1890

Section 54 of the Bombay Salt Act (VII of 1873) is not an enactment under which by itself a charge can be laid. There must, in addition, be reference to some other provision of the Act or some rule in pursuance thereof according to the actual character of the offence imputed. Nor can a mere loose description of salt as contraband satisfy the requirement of the law as to what is contraband salt for the purposes of the penal section of the Salt Act.

The definition given in section 3 must in each case be satisfied by evidence of facts giving to the salt the character there indicated. (Criminal Ruling No. 40 of 1st July 1886, West and Nanabhai Haridas JJ.)

offence, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and, in default of payment of the fine, with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month.

50. All contraband salt, and every vessel, animal or conveyance used, or intended to be used in carrying contraband salt, and all goods, packages and coverings in or among which contraband salt is found, and every apparatus, implement, utensil or material employed, or intended to be employed, for the manufacture, excavation, collection or removal of salt without a license or for the purpose of utilizing natural salt or salt-earth contrary to any of the provisions of this Act or of any rule made hereunder, shall be liable to confiscation.

In paragraph 9 of his report on the case of Imperatrix vs. Maneklal Mangal and others the Legal Remembrancer has observed that the power now conferred on a Magistrate under section 517 of the existing Criminal Procedure Code is much wider. He may make such order as he thinks fit for the disposal of any property produced before him, whether it has been used for the commission of an offence or not; and the discretion so granted is not an arbitrary one, but must be exercised in favour of the person entitled to possession of the property. Accepting this view Government are of opinion that if he holds salt produced before him to be contraband the appropriate procedure for him is to hand over it and such property also be produced for disposal. The Magistrate is therefore entitled to possession of it. There is no necessary conflict between section 517 of the Criminal Procedure Code and sections 50

NOTE.—(See Criminal Rules 11 of 25th June 1902 under section 47.)

BY THE COMMISSIONER OF CUSTOMS, SALT AND EXCISE.

Instructions for the guidance of Treasury Officers authorised to receive payment for the removal of Baragra Salt from the Pritchard Salt Works at Kharaghoda.

In these rules "Chief Account Officer" means the Chief Account Officer of Customs, Salt and Opium, Bombay, "Superintendent" means the Superintendent, Main Salt Stores, Kharaghoda (District Ahmedabad).

1. The Treasury Officers must be careful to have in stock a sufficient supply of forms of indent (to be obtained from the Chief Account Officer) which they should issue freely to the public on application. The Government Salt Agents making such payments at the Ahmedabad Treasury may make them by Cheques on the Ahmedabad Branch of the Bank of Bombay in favour of the Superintendent.

2 The duty, cost price, etc., should be received from the merchants in accordance with Rule 12 of the Bombay Salt Rules, published under Government Notification No. 4501, dated 17th April 1918. All Treasury Officers are requested to explain the provisions of the rule clearly to the merchants.

3. If the charges are paid into a Sub-Treasury, the amount of each indent should be entered in a separate register (Form I), and the total amount received during the day should be credited to the account under the head "Bombay Salt Department" (vide article 425A of the Civil Account Code, Volume I). The Sub-Treasury Officer should submit to the Huzur Treasury Officer with his daily account, all the indents received during the day and an extract from the Sub-Register.

4. On receipt of the daily account, indents and extracts from the Sub-Treasuries the Huzur Treasury Officer should carefully examine them and if correct, enter them in the sub-register of indents and payments received into the Huzur Treasury, and at the end of the day should forward to the Superintendent all the indents received at the Huzur and Sub-Treasuries, with an extract from the sub-register. The monthly statement in Form 59A referred to in article 425A of the Civil Account Code, Volume I, should be forwarded to the Chief Account Officer.

5. The Superintendent should carefully examine each indent received from the Treasury Officer and satisfy himself that the amount entered therein is correct. If he finds that the amount paid into the Treasury is less than what is due at the rates in force on the date on which salt is actually delivered to the trader, he should at once communicate by post the fact to the trader with a view to the recovery of the short payment before the indent is complied with. In this communication the Superintendent should give all particulars necessary to identify the indent.

6. If the Chief Account Officer, on examination of the accounts, finds that any excess payment has been recovered from any trader at any Treasury, he should report the fact to the Accountant General, Bombay, giving particulars as to (a) the name and residence of the trader, (b) the name of the Treasury at which the payment was made, (c) the number and date of the indent, and (d) the amount of excess recovery, in order that the Accountant General may arrange for the refund of the amount through the Treasury Officer concerned.

7. The Accountant General has agreed to furnish the Chief Account Officer with a consolidated statement prepared from the monthly schedules received from the Treasury Officer, Ahmedabad, and from other Accountants General showing all the amounts brought to credit on his books on account of Kharaghoda salt.

8. The Government Salt Agents should prepare a separate monthly bill of their charges for sewing and bagging and submit it to the Superintendent, who should examine it with his registers, and if found correct, submit it to the Chief Account Officer for sanction and payment.

9. If the trader has supplied his own bags, and the Superintendent finds that they are insufficient to hold the quantity of salt indented for, or that all or any of them are not strong enough, he should at once communicate the fact in writing to the trader at the address in the indent with an intimation that the issue will be delayed pending receipt of the bags.

10. All indents received from Treasury Officers under these rules should be entered in a separate register in the appended Form II.

11. The Superintendent should forward to the Chief Account Officer every month a consolidated account of the indents received from each Treasury showing in detail the amount of duty, cost price and Bagging and Sewing charges paid at each of the Treasuries during the month.

12. The Chief Account Officer should carefully compare the monthly statement received from the Superintendent with the monthly statements received from the Treasury Officers under Rule 4, and with the consolidated statement received from the Accountant General in accordance with Rule 7 and should institute immediate inquiries regarding any error or discrepancy.

RULES REGARDING THE DISPOSAL OF APPLICATIONS FOR PERMISSION TO OPEN NEW SALT-WORKS.

(Printed on pages 176 and 176 of the Bombay Government Gazette, Part I of 1890)

No 1733-B—The disposal of applications for permission to open new salt-works shall, subject to the control vested in the Governor in Council and in the Commissioner by Bombay Acts, VII of 1873 and V of 1882, be regulated by the following rules—

1. All applications for permission to manufacture salt are to be made to the Collector of Salt Revenue.

2. On receipt of any such applications the Collector of Salt Revenue shall in the first place make such inquiry as may be necessary to determine whether manufacture should be allowed or not in the locality referred to in the application. If it shall appear to him that manufacture may be allowed, and if the land be unoccupied, he shall report the result of his enquiry with his own opinion and the grounds thereof, to the Commissioner of Salt Revenue, and shall, if the Commissioner so directs, apply to the Collector of Land Revenue to have the land placed at his disposal for salt manufacture in accordance with Rule 7 (b) of the rules under the Bombay Land Revenue Code.

3. If the Collector of Land Revenue agrees to the appropriation of the land for salt manufacture, the Collector of Salt Revenue shall thereupon have the land surveyed and cause a scheme to be prepared for its conversion into one or more salt-works, on such plan and of such dimensions as he may consider most advantageous.

4. The scheme shall embody a plan showing the position, shape and dimensions of the work or works to be constructed, and of pans, reservoirs, banks, storage platforms, channels, paths, etc., the routes by which only the salt is to be removed, the number and description of chaukis and other buildings to be provided by the manufacturer, the contribution to be paid towards cost of additional establishment, the rate of ground-rent to be levied, and all other particulars and conditions which the circumstances of the case may demand or which may from time to time be prescribed.

■ (1) The Collector shall submit the scheme and plan so prepared to the Commissioner.

(2) On receiving from or through the Commissioner instructions as to the scheme and plan finally approved the Collector of Salt Revenue may proceed to dispose of the right to construct the salt-works and to manufacture salt in accordance with it either to the original applicant, if there be no others, or by inviting tenders, or by auction; or, if there be insufficient competition, may lease the ground for a suitable term of years, on condition that the work constructed thereupon shall revert to Government on the expiry of the lease.

(3) In the event of the Collector desiring to substitute a lease for a term of years instead of putting up to auction the right to manufacture, etc., he shall, before passing orders, submit the matter to the Commissioner, and act in accordance with his directions.

6. The person whose application, tender or bid is accepted, or to whom the ground may be leased, shall be required to conform strictly to the scheme, any departure from which, except with the permission of the Collector in writing under sanction previously obtained from the Commissioner, will entail forfeiture of the permission to manufacture.

7. The Collector of Salt Revenue may, at any time of his own motion under sanction previously obtained from the Commissioner, apply to the Collector of Land Revenue to set apart for salt manufacture any unoccupied and unassessed land which he considers suitable and likely to be required for that purpose, and on the land being set apart may either at once proceed to prepare a scheme and dispose of the right of manufacture or await applications, as may seem most advisable.

8. It is to be distinctly understood that the right to manufacture salt conferred by the Collector of Salt Revenue under the foregoing rules, whether for a term of years or otherwise, will be distinct from the occupancy and includes no proprietary right. On the determination of the right to manufacture, whether by expiry, forfeiture or otherwise, the possession of the ground and of any works constructed on it reverts to Government absolutely.

9. (1) When the application relates to occupied land, the Collector of Salt Revenue, if he considers that manufacture may be allowed, shall inform the applicant of the terms upon which permission will be given, and refer him to the Collector of Land Revenue. On the receipt of an intimation that no objection to such appropriation exists on the part of the Land Revenue Department, the Collector of Salt Revenue shall, in consultation with the Collector of Land Revenue, consider on which of the alternative conditions mentioned in Rule 7 (c) of the Bombay Land Revenue Code Rules the permission to appropriate and the license to manufacture should be granted, and shall submit the result of such consideration to the Commissioner of Customs, Salt, Opium and Abkari.

(2) If under instructions received from the Commissioner it is decided that the occupancy should be relinquished and that a lease shall be granted in its stead, the Collector of Salt Revenue shall prepare a scheme under Rule 4 of these rules. In any other case the terms on which the license to manufacture salt shall be granted shall be such as may from time to time be prescribed. All decisions under this Rule shall, before the application is finally disposed of, be communicated to the applicant, who, if the license to manufacture salt is granted, will be bound by all the conditions so decided on.

(30TH SEPTEMBER 1879.)

AN ACT TO RESTRICT THE TRANSPORT OF SALT BY SEA. (AS MODIFIED UP TO 1ST OCTOBER 1907.)

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to restrict the transport of salt by sea in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Transport of Salt Act, 1879.

Local extent. It extends to the western coast of British India, north of Cochin, and to the sea within a distance of a marine league from such coast †

(Commencement. Rep. Act XI of 1901, S. 3)

[This Act applies to the States in Kathiawar as per Agency Notification No. 41, dated the 22nd November 1879.]

Penalties for carrying salt in certain vessels. 2. When any salt is carried by sea in any vessel other than a vessel of the burden of three hundred tons and upwards, the owner and master of such vessel shall each be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with both.

The small craft employed by the contractors for the supply of salt to the States of Cochin and Travencore should be specially exempted from the restriction as to the tonnage prescribed by the Transport of Salt Act, 1879.

(G of I, F. & C., No. D-45-8-3-81 and B. G. R. No. 1649-21-3-81.)

The words 'burden of 300 tons' used in section 2 of the Transport of Salt Act, 1879, mean the gross tonnage of a vessel and not the net tonnage.

It is a well established rule that penal enactments are to be strictly construed. 'The effect of the rule of strict construction' says Maxwel, 'might almost be summed up in the remark that where an equivocal word or ambiguous sentence leaves a reasonable doubt of its meaning which the canons of interpretation fail to solve, the benefit of the doubt should be given to the subject and against the Legislature which has failed to explain itself.

* For Statement of Objects and Reasons, see Gazette of India, 1877, Pt. V, p. 17; for Report of the Select Committee, see ibid, p. 94A; and for Proceedings in Council, see ibid, Supplement, pp. 83—126, 493 and 1223.

† The word "and" was repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1901 (XI of 1901)

It is true that this rule 'yields to the paramount rule that every statute is to be expounded according to the intent of them that made it' But the legislative intents, i.e., the policy and object of the Legislature, was, as appears from the statement of objects and reasons, merely to prevent the surreptitious landing and smuggling which it was then apprehended was carried on by 'very small craft' and the original draft of the Act shows that it was intended to apply only to small vessels. There is no reason for supposing that it was intended to apply to vessels whose burden could only be reduced below 300 tons by applying certain technical rules of measurement established for purposes foreign to the Act.

3. Nothing in section 2 applies to—

(a) Salt covered by a permit granted under* (Chapter V of the †Madras Salt Act, 1889, or Chapter V of the †Bombay Salt Act, 1890, or the corresponding law for the time being in force in the territories administered by the Governor of Fort St. George in Council or the Governor of Bombay in Council, as the case may be):

(b) Salt covered by a pass granted by any officer whom the Governor of Bombay in Council may appoint in this behalf.

(c) Such amount of salt carried on board any vessel for consumption by her crew or by the passengers or animals (if any) on board as the Governor of Bombay in Council may, from time to time, exempt from the operation of section 2.

rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with both.

6. In exercise of the powers conferred by section 6 of the Transport of Salt Act, 1879 (XVI of 1879), and in supersession of Government Notification in the Revenue Department No. 5108, dated the 28th July 1886, the Governor in Council is pleased to appoint the Collector of Customs, Bombay, the Deputy Commissioner of Salt and Excise, Northern, Central and Southern Divisions, and the Chief Collector of Customs in Sind, within the local limits of their respective charges, to adjudge confiscations under section 6 of the said Act.

2. In any case in which in the opinion of the authority referred to in Rule 1, any person has performed any service of special merit in connection with the prevention or detection of any offence under the Transport of Salt Act, he shall have power to grant to such person a reward not exceeding Rs. 50 (fifty) which may be in addition to or in lieu of any reward which may or might have been granted under Rule 1.

Jurisdiction

7. For the purpose of the adjudication of penalties under section 2 or section 5 every offence thereunder may be deemed to have been committed within the limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of any place where the offender is found, or to which, if arrested under section 4 or section 5, he may be brought.

DEPARTMENTAL ORDERS UNDER THE TRANSPORT OF SALT ACT, 1879.

The Coast Guard Inspectors and officers in charge of Custom Houses are empowered under section 4 of the Transport of Salt Act (XVI of 1879) to require vessels believed either from personal knowledge or from information taken down in writing to have salt on board contrary to this Act to be brought to any British Indian Port. When any ship carrying salt in contravention of this Act has been seized she should be brought to the nearest port at which a Sarkarkun's kutcheri is situated. That officer will then prepare proceedings as in ordinary salt cases and send up any owner or master liable to punishment under section 2 to the nearest 1st or 2nd Class Magistrate's Court.

It will be understood that under this Act salt brought from Cutch, Kathiawad or other foreign port for import-tion into British India must be carried in ships of 300 tons burthen.

Fishing boats putting out with salt for curing their fish at sea covered by a pass in the usual form granted by the officers in charge of Fish Curing Yards or Custom Houses are not to be interfered with.

(Collector of Salt Revenue No. 4711, 11th November 1879.)

Proceedings in cases under the Transport of Salt Act, XVI of 1879, should be prepared as in ordinary salt cases and submitted to the Assistant Collector of the Subdivision for transmission to the Deputy Commissioner.

Vessels of less than 300 tons with black salt on board, should not be allowed to communicate with Gujarat coast, as illicit dealings in salt may be carried on under cover of trade in black salt.

(Collector of Salt Revenue No. 5832, 30th December 1895.)

The Transport of Salt Act is not applicable to creeks and rivers.

II. Such Commander shall not, without having first obtained permission as hereinafter provided, allow any communication either with the Pilot Boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III. Immediately on the signal of such arrival being made, the Health Officer of the Port shall go alongside the vessel and ascertain by enquiry from the Commander whether any person on board is suffering from the disease. IV. If the Health Officer shall have reason to believe that such vessel has been infected, he shall direct the commander to prohibit all communication, except such as is hereinafter provided for, between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels fifteen days from the day of arrival in the harbour or from the date of the occurrence of the latest case of illness, and shall further direct the commander to prohibit during the said fifteen days all communication, except such as is hereinafter provided for, between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels

If he is not so satisfied, he shall proceed as provided in Rule 9 seq. of these rules. The inspection of the Port Health Officer will ordinarily take place between sunrise and sunset.

9. When the Port Health Officer considers it necessary, in order to prevent the spread of disease, he may inspect the vessel including the passengers and crew, and may arrange for the conveyance of all persons suffering or suspected by him to be suffering from such disease to a sanitarium or hospital, unless the sick person or his friends can make adequate provision elsewhere.

10. The removal of passengers is not to be enforced in the case of persons bound for an onward port unless under the clearest necessity: and of every such case a special report explaining the reasons for the action taken, must be submitted to Government.

11. The Port Health Officer shall inform the Municipal Health Officer in all cases in which he arranges for the conveyance of a patient to a sanitarium or hospital or other places within Municipal limits, and shall furnish the address of any private accommodation to which he permits the removal of a patient.

14. When a vessel with one or more of the above-mentioned diseases on board has passengers in a filthy and unwholesome condition, the Port Health Officer may cause the clothing and personal effects of such persons to be disinfected before allowing their disembarkation.

All such notices of death shall be reported (1) in the Port of Bombay by the Harbour Police to the Municipal Health Officer and (2) at any other Coast Port by the Port Health Officer (a) in the case of the death of an European or Eurasian to the Collector of the District; and (b) in the case of the death of a native to the Registrar of Births and Deaths of the place.

(2) No dead body is to be removed from the ship, within ports limits, without the permission of the Police authorities, which shall not be given until the Port Health Officer has determined the cause of death.

(3) No person dying from any cause whatsoever shall be buried by sea burial within the port limits, and no Master of a vessel shall remove or permit any dead body on board his vessel, within the port limits, to be removed thereout for burial at sea; but every dead body which shall be upon any vessel within the port limits shall, in accordance with any precautions which may be prescribed by the Port Health Officer, be buried, burnt or otherwise disposed of, on shore, according to the nationality, class or caste to which the deceased person belonged.

19. The Master of a vessel coming under these rules, and any person to whom these rules apply, shall comply with all the directions which the Port Health Officer considers it necessary to give under the foregoing rules.

Note.—The penalty for disobedience is prescribed in sub-section (3) of section 6 of the Indian Ports Act, 1901, viz., a fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000.

20. Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to prevent a vessel whose Master is unwilling to submit to the above regulations from proceeding to sea, provided that there has been no communication between such vessel and the shore or with other vessel in the Port.

21. All officers of Customs, Port Trust, Water and Dock Police, the Executive Health Officer of the Municipality and the Resident Surgeons of Public Hospitals shall immediately communicate to the Port Health Officer information of any case of infectious disease among the shipping on the fore-shore, or in places frequented by seamen, that may come to their notice.

(100° C.), care being taken that the steam shall reach all parts of the article to be disinfected.

III. The disinfectants to be used are the following:—

(1) A solution of corrosive sublimate 1 part in 1,000 of common water, to be tinted with a few drops of blue solution of potassium permanganate. Should not be brought in contact with metals.

(2) A solution in water of clear carbolic acid. This solution should contain 5 parts of phenol in 100 parts of water.

* Preferably distilled or rain water.

(4) Limewash, prepared as follows:—

Take a quantity of good quicklime weighing 2 pounds and slake it by the gradual addition of about half a pint of water. The lime becomes hot, gives off steam and falls to a powder. This powder, if not used at once, should be kept in an airtight vessel in a dry place. For use, the quantity of slaked lime obtained from two pounds of quicklime should be placed in a convenient vessel and water added to make one gallon. Whenever possible freshly slaked lime should be used to make the limewash.

Special instructions to be observed in the use of the disinfecting solutions.

IV. Linen, clothing and articles which have been soiled by the discharges and excretions of patients should be soaked in the solution of corrosive sublimate* or in one of the carbolic acid solutions for at least 6 hours.

V. Articles which cannot, without injury, be exposed to a temperature of 212° F. such as leather goods, wooden articles stuck with glue, felt, etc., should be washed with the solution of corrosive sublimate. Metal articles or any material which would be injured by contact with the solution of corrosive sublimate should be soaked in a solution of carbolic acid.

VI. The limewash is particularly recommended for disinfecting excreta.

VII. Expecterated matter should be burnt.

VIII. Attendants on the sick ought to take the precaution of washing their own hands and faces with the solution of corrosive sublimate and afterwards with warm water.

Disinfection of ships.

IX. The cabins, forecables, holds, water closets or latrines occupied or used by persons suffering or suspected to be suffering from an infectious disease, should be cleared out, and all the articles in them should be treated as directed above. Floors, walls and partitions should be disinfected

* The same solution, even if it remains clear should not be used more than three times, since the corrosive sublimate organic will be removed from the solution in combination with the matter in the clothing.

with the solution of corrosive sublimate, care being taken that every part is scrubbed and washed until it has been thoroughly wetted by the disinfecting solution. Two hours afterwards the walls, etc., should be washed with clean water.

X. In ships, in which cases of cholera have occurred, the drinking water should be pumped out and the water tanks and casks disinfected with solution of permanganate of potash acidulated with hydrochloric acid, before fresh drinking water is taken on board.

Disinfection of the bilges of an infected ship.

XI. Sulphate of iron in quantity sufficient to neutralize the sulphuretted hydrogen should first be thrown in: the bilge should then be pumped out and flushed with sea-water. After the sea-water has been pumped out, a suitable quantity of corrosive sublimate solution should be thrown in. Magistrate to determine the amount to be levied in case of dispute.

59. If any dispute arises concerning the amount leviable by any distress or arrest under this Act or the costs payable under the last foregoing section, the person making the distress or using the arrest may detain the goods distrained or arrested, or the proceeds of the sale thereof, until the amount to be levied has been determined by a Magistrate, who, upon application made to him for that purpose, may determine the amount and award such costs to be paid by either of the parties to the other of them as he thinks reasonable, and payment of such costs, if not paid on demand, shall be enforced as if they were a fine.

Conviction to be quashed on merits only.

61. (1) No conviction, order or judgment of any Magistrate under this Act shall be quashed for error of form or procedure, but only on the merits, and it shall not be necessary to state, on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, the evidence on which it proceeds.

(2) If no jurisdiction appears on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, but the depositions taken supply that defect, the conviction, order or judgment shall be aided by what so appears in the depositions.
